

Anil Saxena

Cube 2.14 Consulting

Anil Saxena, founder of Cube 214 Consulting, helps companies exceed their goals by creating exciting, productive workplaces with lower employee turnover, higher customer retention, and increased profitability.

One Fortune 500 client struggled with a 54% employee turnover rate in their IT division. Anil developed several unique initiatives for this company, including a “get out of cube free” card that eased employee burnout, and the “HTTP” (How to Treat People) program that taught the client’s IT managers how to build and motivate high performance employee teams. Both management and staff loved his fun yet practical approach, and within 18 months, Anil reduced employee turnover to just 13%.

Anil has created and led management development programs for over 16 years. He is a certified High Impact coach and trainer, a Joint Application Design facilitator, and is certified by both Rush Systems and IBM as a focus group facilitator. He is an inaugural member of Northwestern University’s Learning and Organizational Change program, and he earned his bachelor’s degree in mechanical engineering from the Illinois Institute of Technology.